78 Principals Affiliated with NYC Leadership Academy to Receive Performance-based Bonuses

New York, NY—The New York City Department of Education (NYCDOE) recently named the schools and school leaders who will receive bonuses for meeting or surpassing their school’s performance goals. The NYC Leadership Academy congratulates the more than 30 graduates of our Aspiring Principals Program (APP), and the more than 40 participants in our coaching and support programs who are being rewarded for their performance this past school year.

One hundred and ninety eight principals and assistant principals of schools whose Progress Reports were in the top 20% citywide will each receive up to $25,000 in bonuses – totaling $4.4 million. Of these, 32 are graduates of APP and/or participants in the Leadership Academy coaching programs. In addition, educators at 139 high-need New York City schools will receive school-wide performance bonuses totaling more than $27 million because students met performance targets. Of these, 46 are schools led by principals who are APP graduates and/or participants in the Leadership Academy coaching program.

“We are pleased that so many participants in Leadership Academy programs are being acknowledged for their students' results,” said NYC Leadership Academy CEO Sandra Stein. “We look forward to further supporting the exciting work of these school leaders and their teams.”
